Our Risk Management Solution Set

ProSidian's Risk Management services respond to client requests to "Keep Us Out of Trouble" and "Make Our Business Better". Coordinated risk activities enhance business processes and create competitive advantage.

However, for most organizations changing regulatory and operational perspectives pose risks based on the unique aspects of their organizational profile. Many are looking for effective ways to address the breadth of their risk management activities while managing cost and enhancing stakeholder value.

Many are saying that recent risk management activities and new requirements are confusing and difficult to manage, yet they want to have competencies and activities in place to avoid problems.

Leading organizations place high consideration on the risks inherent in their key initiatives and proactively address these risks to avoid problems. They focus on continuous improvement by incorporating risk management competencies into all business activities to improve operations.

For issues that apply to your organization, we work with stakeholders to identify current processes for addressing risks and developing, designing, and implementing a plan.

Typical Questions Posted:

- How do we know if we have everything covered?
- Can we be more efficient and effective?
- How do we better manage our risk exposures?

- What are the key issues in our industry?
- Can we get more from our risk investments?
- Who does what from a risk perspective?
- How are our risk management activities coordinated?

- How do we update business model in the changing environment?

At ProSidian, we develop tools, processes and organizational structures that create a sustainable risk management program. Expertise and a structured approach to strategic solutions is essential in order to adequately evaluate risk management initiatives and in implementing appropriate solutions to create change and execute management's objectives.

Client Centric Risk Management
Deliverables

Not only do our management and operations consultants have the know-how, but they have the practical experience that allows them to speak with our clients in the language of their own businesses in order to better understand their needs and implement solutions

You Own The Risk; We Help You Manage The Risk

Information Risks: Information risk comes from risks associated with data protection, information privacy, effects of physical disasters on information systems, information technology outsourcing, IT performance, information systems governance and more. ProSidian's Risk Management Solutions focus on risks inherent in technology systems used to support business objectives.

Our teams skilled IT Effectiveness professionals use their knowledge and experience to help clients manage technology risk and provide them with the information they need to meet their strategic objectives.

We offer services to develop strategies that help protect information assets, manage IT governance and performance, achieve effective project management, as well as, manage IT outsourcing risk, business continuity, systems controls and more.

Regulatory Risk: The failure of statutory compliance creates regulatory risk. ProSidian's Regulatory Risk Management & Compliance Services strive to help you improve relations with regulatory agencies and reduce potential liabilities stemming from adverse enforcement actions.

Our services address risks associated with financial, information, operations and control requirements. Specific regulatory and compliance services include FERC, Dodd-Frank Act, SOX, Corporate Governance and more.

We help clients proactively comply with regulatory requirements, secure and monitor systems and data, and mitigate risks that lead to losses from non-compliance, litigation, or regulatory sanctions.

Operations Risks: Operations risks are those that affect the production aspects and operations of a business. Safeguarding against losses from data corruption, manufacturing inefficiencies and operational issues are a few of the areas where operations risk can be identified.

ProSidian helps clients identify and prioritize the risks that affect the strategic well-being and performance of an organization. We work to find the right balance between risk and control by directly linking operational risk to the organization's strategic objectives.

Our service offerings are not only designed to mitigate risk, they help drive performance.

Demand Risk: This is the risk associated with inventory fluctuations and challenges. While some suppliers jump at the opportunity to take on new challenges, enthusiasm does not imply they are in the best position to deliver.

The mitigation approach is to watch suppliers carefully for signs they are overwhelmed with new business and take action to shift demand to other suppliers if this appears to be the case. A supplier's desire to grow business should not affect organizational decisions.

We help clients achieve the level of monitoring necessary to insure demand risk is managed effectively.

Financial Risk Management: ProSidian assists organizations in evaluating business strategies in light of strategic, operational, and financial risk tolerance levels. We work with management and key stakeholders to develop risk (e.g., market, credit and operations risk) strategies and assist in modeling value-at-risk, cash flow-at-risk, and other sensitivity measures.

We help model variability of business risks and interaction between products and services in line with current risk control mechanisms. In addition, we assist with risk organization design, role definition, and business unit integration.

Controls Risk: Risks are anything that could adversely impact achieving the objectives. Without proper controls and standard procedures controls risk arises. Management is responsible for implementing appropriate controls to reduce risk and to achieve operational objectives.

ProSidian provides advice and services that enable our clients to accelerate the management of strategic and operational risks. We work in concert with Internal Audit Services to supplement and co-source the skillsets, experiences, and teams necessary to ensure adequate systems of controls are in place.

With a starting point of “What Could Go Wrong”, ProSidian helps organizations review, assess, and improve systems of controls while verifying that optimal systems of controls are in place and operating effectively.

Environmental Risk: From an environmental perspective, every organization is at risk. However resources are limited and requirements are dynamic. ProSidian's helps clients develop, implement, and improve sustainability strategies and systems through stakeholder engagement, acquiring and validating data, and preparing reports.

Our support for environmental risk management focuses on helping organizations develop policies & sustainability strategies, prepare baselines, provide required reporting, and other services to manage Greenhouse Gas (GHG) concerns.

Commodity Trading Risk: ProSidian consultants have a functional understanding of the physical and financial aspects of various energy commodities (Gas, Power, Oil, and Coal).

We have practical knowledge of functional and technical elements of commodity trade lifecycles including deal capture, valuation, portfolio organization and management, risk management, credit management, scheduling/nominations, settlement/reconciliation, invoicing, accounting and financial reporting.

Our full “Lifecycle Experience” positions us to effectively team with clients on project and risk management initiatives to assist in either enhancing or developing custom ETRM applications, assessing exposures, determining optimal hedge ratios, forecasting pricing, and portfolio management and analysis.

Market Risk: Risks associated with brand management, compliance management, financial performance, and market exposure. As an example: When an organization outsources production or even entire product lines, it places itself at the mercy of its suppliers. If they deliver a sub-par product, or fail to deliver completely, the organization will be on the line.

ProSidian's services serve to assist clients to closely to detect early warnings (such as supplier financial viability) and determine the possible impact of a compromise before potential issues wreak havoc with the firm's brand, ability to meet compliance regulations, and the bottom line.

Compliance Risk: Regulatory compliance risk is becoming more and more common. Most organizations have adequately covered risks related to Sarbanes-Oxley compliance. Now there are multiple security related acts and programs such as Dodd-Frank Act, Corporate Governance, E-Verify, Customs Trade Partnership Against Terrorism (C-TPAT), the World Customs Organization (WCO) SAFE framework, Office of Foreign Assets Control (OFAC) regulations, to name a few. When we work with clients we ask and answer four basic questions:

1. What risks do you worry about?
2. What is your role and authority in the organization?
3. How does the organization structure its compliance effort, from you down throughout the enterprise?
4. How many, and what types of, resources are provided to let the compliance program do its job?

Our services cover compliance functions, reporting relationships, and organizational structure as well as measuring compliance program effectiveness.

Sourcing Risk: Sourcing Risk Management helps clients identify and manage outsourcing risks along the continuum of the outsourcing life cycle. This is the risk associated with not choosing the right supply management strategy. ProSidian provides assistance with sourcing decisions, due diligence, transition management and metrics.

We work with clients to identify, measure and manage the impact of sourcing decisions. We help to define the right strategy up front, identify and qualify the right suppliers for the business, and use reliable market intelligence to drive decisions, possibly supplemented by external sources.

Performance Risk: Risk associated with supplier quality and financial issues after a supplier is selected - a considerable amount of work goes into the qualification process - there's still considerable work to be done to maintain performance.

Suppliers can be acquired, go out of business, or shift strategy at any time. Constant vigilance is required. Your reputation is constantly at risk based on the viability of your supply chain. Our mitigation approach continuously monitors your suppliers to avoid disruptions caused by bankruptcies, performance issues, ownership changes, labor strikes, geopolitical changes, and other unpredictable occurrences.

Human Risk: At the foundation of all risks are people – people sourcing product, people building product, people shipping product, people selling product, people managing processes, and people responsible for your reputation – and people are fallible.

Because people touch all aspects of an organization, a focus on human capital risk is a very important part of an effective risk management and compliance program. Yet the management of human capital risk is often undefined. Organizations today face major challenges due to lack of clarity around roles and responsibilities assigned to this area of risk. We work with clients to address the challenges that are directly related to strategic and compliance issues that have human capital at the core.

We support the design and deployment of talent management strategies, strategic resourcing, aging workforce, promoting fraud prevention and ethical behavior. ProSidian helps stakeholders sort through the matrix of responsibility for identifying, assessing, prioritizing, managing, monitoring, and improving all aspects of human capital risks.

Implementation Risk: It's critical that an organization have a good understanding of all the risks associated with implementing new initiatives. ProSidian works with clients to prepare, ramp up, manage, and close out new initiatives and ensure mission objectives are in line with expectations. This includes an assessment of suppliers they are working with, what their capacity issues are, and where they could improve before contracting with them.

We provide the strategic resources so that the initiative may get the level of attention the organization desires. We manage the risks so you gain early visibility into potential risk factors that might hinder production, lead times, or initial performance.

- How do you know you have everything covered?
- Who is responsible to manage unforeseen incidents?
- How do you stay on task, on time, and under budget?

Then collaborate with project stakeholders on resolving these potential risk factors before they become a problem.

Risk Management Overall: Risks are anything that adversely impacts the achievement of objectives. The inability to adequately manage risks inherent to an organization could cause considerable deviations and disruptions to the business .

To identify risks, work with clients to ask the fundamental questions “What Could Go Wrong”. We also consider the potential loss or consequences if something did happen. Oftentimes the impact is difficult to measure in dollar terms, such as damage to reputation or loss of critical data.

Our services help to develop dynamic risk management processes that align Strategy, Operations, and People; this enabling the organization to systematically identify, assess and manage critical business risks.

ProSidian Management and operations consultants are well versed in modeling, analyzing, and communicating the effects of combined risks.

We typically aggregate risks across multiple risk factors and business units, taking into account correlations and the effects of diversification, while assisting clients in measuring risk exposures on a consistent basis.

Once your risk has been properly assessed and measured, our consultants assist clients in institutionalizing methods as well as assist in bringing other best practice approaches to their daily operations.

Our core competencies and knowledge of Risk Management Solutions provide the foundation to deliver value to clients with the capacity to quickly discern the unique nature of the client's needs and deliver results through a structured approach.

Our insight leverages our knowledge base of experience in strategic risk processes and requirements relevant to the specific industry.
